

Testimonial for Jen (Jennifer) Hall

Whoever reads this testimonial should know that I do not write testimonials frequently or easily.

A coach will be the hardest critic of any other coach's ability.

Any business that has people as its core focus cannot allow for mistakes and operators must be of unquestionable integrity and values. I have this same view towards the professionals I choose to work alongside. As coaches, we have a tremendous responsibility towards those we interact with.

That said, Jen has my full confidence and backing as she has these same ethics.

It is a very rare individual who will candidly share both the successes and failures with full honesty, disregarding opinion or outcome. It is just as rare to share a stage with someone who you know has no agenda of their own to push, but is whole heartedly about the best for the audience.

Jen is one of those people who I can entrust with family, friends, clients and business colleagues. She is also one of the few people who I will work with in this profession. This is based on past and present professional ventures, feedback from business colleagues and clients.

I have seen Jen invest in herself throughout the years both financially and time wise as she has a true passion for learning and making sure that her clients receive nothing but her best.

When I think of a person who actually does what they teach others, I can easily say that Jen is one of those.
